Double Life of Member Variag Runs 22 Knots of Parliament Exposed After Death.

Brinkworth sued the estate of the late William Reckett, a former member of Parliament, for continued support for herself and her alleged children.

Mr. Beckett was head of one of the wealthiest private banking firms in England and eminently respected in Parliament and in society. It now transpires that Mrs. Brinkworth lived as his mistrees for many years and that the couple amused themselves by buying children which they passed off as their own, as Beckett wished to use the children to the children to the payment of large sums to his cruiser was given a twenty-four-hear of them were impertinent and embarracing.

It seemed easy enough. A man there gave me a lot of eards on which were printed questions to be asked persons and about domestic animals. He said I had a certain district on the East Side and that there were 1,19 other districts in the city. He said also that there was a card for every person.

"The best plan to pursue, "advised the man, "Is to go to a house and ask each person the questions and then count the animals." I looked at the questions. There were a great number of them, and really I do acknowledge that some of them were impertinent and embarrasoing.

Miller, under the care of Principal Reeper John Wilson, left Raymond Street Jail at 12.90. The party then went by trolley to the Bridge and then took and "L" train for the Grand Central station, with the intention of starting for Sing Sing at 2.05.

Miller's father, mother and wife visited him in jail this morning. He gave to his wife a number of small trinkets he had a very affecting parting.

The next step in the attempt to save Miller will be for his lawyer to go before the Appellate Division and endeavor to have the decision against the "finantier" upset and a new trial granted. The Appellate Division adjourns soon it is not probable a hearing will be obtained there until the Fall meeting.
